“BLESS YOU BOYS!”

WALKING THROUGH THE HISTORICAL MOMENTS OF THE DETROIT TIGERS THROUGH STORIES AND MEMORABILIA!

If you were born and raised in Michigan and love baseball, the Detroit Tigers are most likely a very important part of your life! From their humble beginning in 1901, over 100 years of baseball history and memories have been created at the corner of Michigan and Trumbull Avenue and, for the past 22 years, at Comerica Park on Woodward Avenue.

Join avid Detroit Tiger baseball enthusiast and memorabilia collector, Todd Walter, as he guides and engages audiences through a journey of Detroit Tiger baseball memories. His powerful storytelling abilities and sharing of an extensive artifact collection are sure to be a “hit” with any audience.

Who doesn't remember...?

Game five of the 1968 World Series and Willie Horton's famous throw from left field to catcher Bill Freehan at home plate to get out St. Louis Cardinal, Lou Brock?

Kirk Gibson's three run blast in the bottom of the eight off San Diego Padres ace pitcher, Goose Gossage to solidify the Tigers win of the 1984 World Series.

These and a plethora of other Detroit Tiger memorable moments will be shared both by Todd and through audience participation.
